Flying Fish Exhibits seeks Exhibition Analyst Intern for Summer 2018

About Flying Fish:

Working with museums and science centers, Flying Fish provides a comprehensive consulting, sales & marketing, and operational management service to the touring exhibition industry around the world. Learn more about our work at www.flyingfishexhibits.com.

About the Internship:

Fulfilling the role of Exhibition Analyst Intern, you will learn about our processes and you will contribute your ideas and work within the following areas:

- Research and report upon potential exhibition acquisitions
- Determine target museum/science center markets for said exhibitions

This role is presented in response to a need to grow our portfolio of Flying Fish's touring exhibition offerings. The experience should be an enjoyable one. We want you to have fun and learn about the for-profit side of the museum industry – a sector that our museum and science center clients rely upon to be able to offer their members and visitors new and exciting programming.

In your role, you will gain exposure to many aspects of the touring exhibition business, virtually working alongside the directors of Flying Fish.

Flying Fish's Director of Sales, former AHUGA member, and U of M College of Liberal Arts graduate will work and mentor you out of the Forest Lake office, or remotely.

To apply:

Email your cover letter and résumé to Carrie Reid at carrier@flyingfishexhibits.com.

We look forward to hearing from you!
